Wolters Kluwer Showcases New Content and Solutions at Online Information 2006

Wide range of e-books, online journals and databases, solutions and editorial information services are amongst highlighted initiatives

London, United Kingdom (November 28, 2006) - Wolters Kluwer, a leading global information services and publishing company is joining information professionals at the world's primary event for online content and information management solutions, Online Information 2006. At its stands at the Olympia Grand Hall (# 518 and 520) a comprehensive range of online products, services, and solutions will be demonstrated.

Held annually in London, Online Information exhibition and conference starts at 10:00 am today and runs through November 30. More than 10,000 information professionals, including librarians, researchers, publishers, IT professionals, content managers, and business professionals attend the exhibition. Wolters Kluwer staff and representatives will be available for hands-on demonstrations and product presentations from brand leaders such as Ovid, Lippincott Williams & Wilkins, Adis, Croner, Kluwer, Lamy, and CCH.

On Wednesday, November 29 at 14:15 p.m., Pedja Pavlicic, Director, Technology Product Management at Ovid Technologies will present "Delivering Medical Information at the Point-of-care" at the free seminar in Theatre A. Throughout the event, several of Wolters Kluwer's most pioneering products such as ClinicaResource@Ovid, ProVation MD, Adis R&D Insight, Navigator, Croner-i, and Lamyline Reflex will be shown.

Ovid Technologies, part of Wolters Kluwer Health and a global leader in electronic medical, scientific, and academic information research solutions, will be promoting its new Lippincott Williams & Wilkins (LWW) Journal Legacy Archive, which includes more than 220 medical, nursing and healthcare titles that date back as far as the 1820s. The 4 million pages in the LWW Journal Legacy Archive includes just under 1 million articles of original research, reviews, notes, letters, case studies, and supplements, from approximately 35,000 journal issues.

Many articles in the collection introduced groundbreaking theories and techniques to the scientific community when they were first published and are still frequently cited by today's researchers. In addition the value the LWW Journal Legacy Archive provides in the research process, it can save more than 1 mile of library shelf space. Ovid will also offer two biosciences archives, the BIOSIS Archive and Zoological Record Archive, on the Ovid platform by the end of 2006.

Exhibition and conference attendees can schedule meetings in advance by email at online@wolterskluwer.com. For more information on Wolters Kluwer's participation at Online Information, please contact info@wolterskluwer.com.
